Oregonian Author is Finalist for “Best Books 2006” Book Award

Dynamic Energetic Healing® ranks among top three for “New Age: Non-Fiction” category

(Salem, OR)— Salem based Psychotherapist and author of the new book Dynamic Energetic Healing®: Integrating Core Shamanic Practices with Energy Psychology Applications and Processwork Principles, has reason to celebrate. After months of promoting his book on a new psychotherapy model that integrates ancient spiritual healing practices with modern psychotherapy, Howard Brockman received a surprise announcement.

Brockman received notification on Oct 18th by USABookNews.com that his book is a finalist in the “New Age: Non-Fiction” category of the “BEST BOOKS 2006” Book Awards.

Winners and finalists in over 120 categories covering print, audio, ebooks and interactive CD-ROMs published in 2006 and late 2005 will be announced publicly on November 1, 2006. A complete list of the winners and finalists of the USABookNews.com “Best Books 2006” Book Awards are available online at <http://www.USABookNews.com>

In the Dynamic Energetic Healing® model, Brockman synthesizes three different healing modalities: energy psychology, core shamanic practices and process-oriented psychology.

DEH® is an energy-based psychotherapy that provides an alternative for the millions of Americans frustrated with the over-prescription of antidepressants and countless hours of talk therapy by combining contemporary psychology with ancient spiritual wisdom.

Dynamic Energetic Healing® has proven successful in addressing depression, posttraumatic stress disorder, eating disorders, anxiety and panic attacks, addictions, dissociative disorders, the emotional/mental underpinnings of physical illness and the spiritual and developmental issues that surface in mid-life.

Brockman’s book discusses the origins of DEH®, provides an outline of the DEH® model including various interventions, illustrations, and a protocol for how to use them. His book also includes 17 case histories that demonstrate the transformative power of Dynamic Energetic Healing®.
